Respected Elders and my dear Gynatijan

February 2019, Historic memorable month for Vayda vanik caste, Five days celebration with all ritual proceeding and togetherness at Vayad, It is worth to say A feeling of being able to contribute to the needs of others, fitting in, being an influencer for good and being influenced by others are in part contributing factors that create a sense of togetherness. But, what drives our feelings?

Some have defined togetherness as not just a destination, but a defined set of relationships among all of us. People we like and are comfortable 'hanging out' with makes us feel good. It is in this experience that we maintain communities and participate to meet common needs. there is an emotion without blood relation also, we felt at Vayad, No need now to buy insurance for our brotherhood, the tip of the premium because the amount of insurance is priceless, the beneficiary is all of us, the insurance period is a lifetime till we live.

Let us change definition of 14th February (Valentine's day) being a historic celebration at Vayad, 14th February , let us celebrate as "WORLD VAYADA DAY"

Perhaps the best reason to pursue more togetherness in our lives is that it has proven to make us happier. A whole body of thinking is now catching on, known as the "economics of happiness."

At its core is the argument that our gross domestic product is not a very good measure of human progress; instead, we should be measuring those things that enhance our collective quality of life.

I hope that I can do things differently; my brothers and sisters , I used to prepare a cheat sheet before the exam. It's so cute, I hope that we will do great things in the future, which days are always happy and colorful.

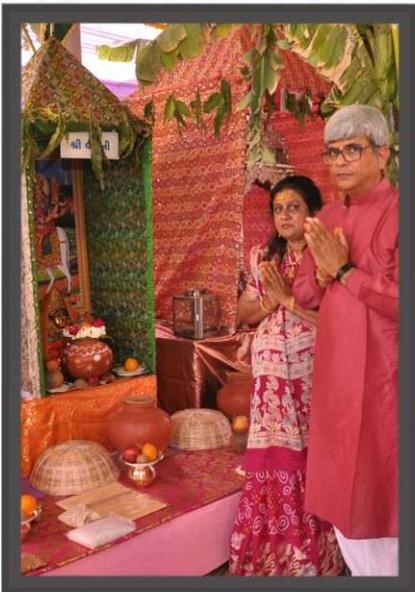

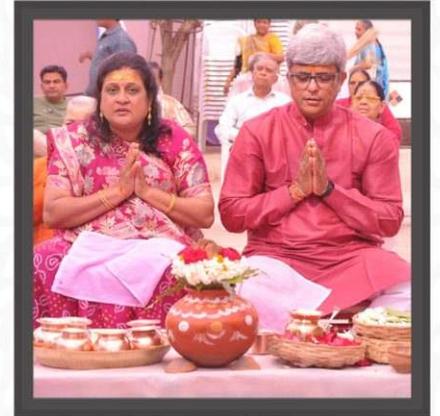

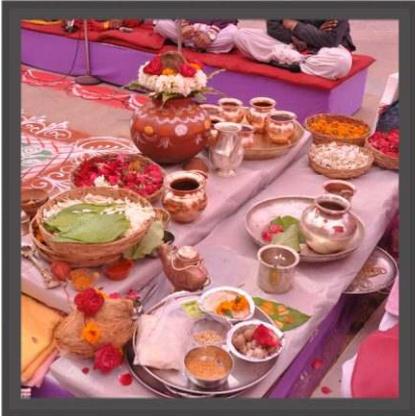

As we continue to share our stories, and do so with the same players over time, reciprocity and trust grow among us. This is an investment in deepening community, and the dividends this investment pays will be crucial to us in times of need. When we enjoy one another in a community we have invested in, we become a collective witness to the events around us.

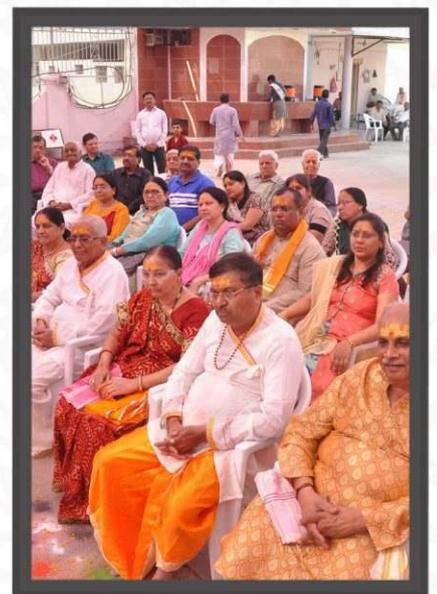

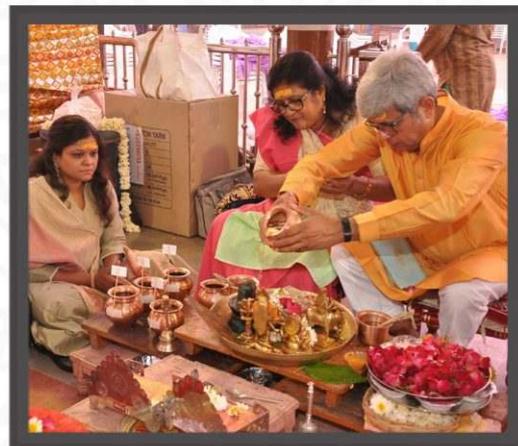

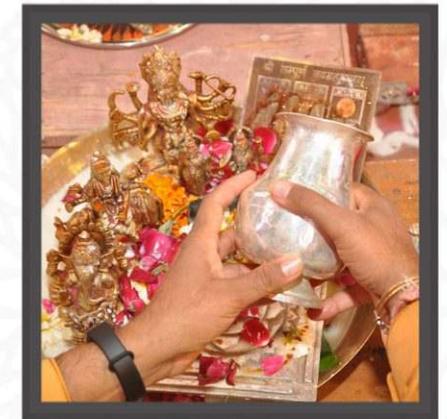

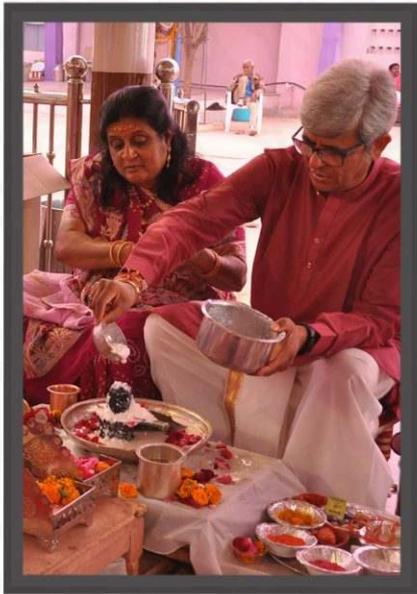

Admire your boldness, admire your courage, appreciate your responsibility, like your righteousness. You are an upright man, we support each other forever. You all are true "gold", not afraid of fire and knife and gun; mutual love and selflessness; the heart is hanging more, the message blessing is happy, the happy life is good, the body is as healthy as health ,

I wish You are safe and happy.

GLOBAL FESTIVALS

When the new year arrives, where do you want to travel? Pick up the calendar, Skyscanner specializes in organizing global festivals, so you can have an excuse to travel every month for a whole year!

January: Harbin Ice and Snow Festival

The world's largest snow and ice carnival "Harbin International Ice and Snow Festival" will be held on January 5th every year! Referred to as the "Ice and Snow Festival" of China's Harbin International Ice and Snow Festival, the Ice and Snow Festival is rich in content and diverse in form. It has a large-scale ice lantern garden, ice and snow world, Sun Island Snow Expo and Yabuli Ski Challenge and other ice and snow activities. On the banks of the Songhua River, there is a cultural ancient capital known as the Ice City all year round – Harbin creates unlimited snow and world, you can refer to [Top Ten Stunning Ice Sculptures] and create a unique story of ice and snow for yourself! ice charm through ice and snow! If you want to enjoy more ice sculptures and ice festivals around the Go to the Harbin Ice World in the North!

February: Valentine's Day, Hokkaido Festival, Mardi Gras, Venice Carnival, Rio Carnival

On behalf of the pink romantic Western Valentine's Day in February, it is a good opportunity to travel with the other half. Traveling is a wonderful thing. You can get to know each other better when you travel and find that you are not suitable for each other. Asia has the most representative Sapporo Snow Festival in winter in Japan . Each year, more than 300 large-scale ice sculptures are piled up on the theme, so that visitors come to enjoy the snow. In addition, from Ash Wednesday to Easter Day, the Christian is a 40-day fasting period (Lent), during which no egg or milk products are eaten, so it is called Tuesday before the start of the fasting period. For Fat Tuesday (also known as Pancake Day in the UK), everyone gathered together for a big feast before the fasting period.

Many places celebrate the festival through carnivals, masquerades and make-up parades. The famous is the southern United States. New Orleans' Mardi Gras (Flat Tuesday in French), the world's most lively, luxurious, and largest, four-day enthusiasm for The Rio Carnival and the Venetian Carnival (10 days before Ramadan) Venice Carnival). The Venice Carnival is also a celebration to celebrate the victory of the war. Every year, a gorgeous and lively banquet is held in the water. The people attending the celebration wear beautiful masks and Chinese costumes of the Middle Ages. It is a lively and elegant atmosphere.

March: Valencia Fire Festival, St. Patrick's Day, Ireland

The hometown of Spanish seafood stews, Valencia, Las Fallas, one of Spain's three major festivals, is also the Father's Day of Spain, held around March 13-19 every year, from the Middle Ages. During the custom of the period, local carpenters used to work on the wooden bench decorated with dolls to set up the candlelight when they were working on winter nights; until March 19, the carpenter guarded the birthday of San José, and it was also the spring coming. The burning of the Taiwanese in addition to the old cloth has evolved into a burning idol. During the annual fire festival, more than 500 statues spread throughout the city of Valencia.

There are also dolls showing, marching, offering flowers to the Virgin and the selection of the Queen of Fire and the Princess, in addition to the statue of the first prize. In the museum collection, other statues will be concentrated in the government square on the night of March 19, and will be burned at midnight to announce the end of the day of the fire festival. Ireland on the other side celebrates the largest annual festival, the Guardian Saint of St. Patrick's Day. Every March 17th, everyone will wear green-related clothes accessories, wear a clover with a religious interpretation of the Trinity, and also symbolize the lucky lucky grass ornaments. Watch the parade on the streets of Dublin, the capital, and render the whole country. Green and green, the river will be dyed green, where you can see the unique and charming Ireland.

April: Holly Festival, Water Festival, King's Day

The April of the coming of spring is also the New Year of the two nationalities. The Holi Festival of the Indian New Year is the most colorful festival in the world. The streets and alleys are in a state of madness, with colorful powders and natural stains for spraying the liquid dyed with flour and water. The caste system strictly adhered to in peacetime has become unimportant in front of this festival. Everyone is happy and cheering, celebrating the arrival of spring, praying for a good harvest of the year's stolen goods. The annual celebration date is calculated by the Indian calendar. On the other side of Thailand, celebrating the New Year, blessing each other with splashing water.

The Songkran Festival was originally called "nothing" in Thailan (Songkran), which is the same as the word "Shan Han". It is called "Thingyan" in Myanmar. It is derived from Sanskrit and means "running." The Songkran Festival is named after the fact that Southeast Asians believe that the sun is turning into the first house in the zodiac constellation, the Amur Palace (from Indian astrology), which represents the beginning of the new year. But the sun into the Amur Palace should be March, the holiday is scheduled to be in mid-April is a calculation error, but people have no intention of overturning the concept of customary conventions, and Thailand now adopts the Gregorian calendar, the Songkran Festival is scheduled for April of the annual calendar. From the 13th to the 16th of April. After a few days of festivals, people will start to bathe in the early morning, and then celebrate for several days.

April

During this period, they will splash each other with pure water. The first two days of the Songkran Festival symbolizes the old, and the last day is welcome. Pray for the disappointment of the past year, and the new year will be met with water! Let [Thailand Water Festival Raiders] set off for you! In the Netherlands, on April 27th, the "Orange" country was celebrated as the Queen's Day and is now the King's Day. Originating from the 19th century festival, the Dutch royal family held events throughout the country in order to celebrate the Queen's birthday, and in April 1949, it will be the Queen's Day on April 30th, with the Dutch royal family's surname Oranje (Orange).

Orange is the theme color, and the royal family will also interact with the people on this day. Until the new king William in 2014. Alexander enthroned, Queen's Day officially changed its name to the Dutch King's Day (Koningsdag), and the date was changed to the new king's birthday on April 27th. There are musical performances, exhibitions, markets and parties all over the Netherlands. Crazy, a wave of orange waves hit the Netherlands, boiling the patriotic atmosphere to the highest point

June: Midsummer Festival, Music Festival, Lavender Season

High-latitude countries have finally spent the long winter nights, celebrating the summer solstice of the longest day of the year, the Midsummer Festival is the Nordic and the Daytime festival is an important celebration in Russia. In some parts of northern Europe, there will even be a 24-hour daylight. On behalf of the light, the day of darkness is expelled. In order to welcome the summer, people will wear traditional costumes, wear headgear garlands, dance typical folk music and dance, and enjoy special dishes for Midsummer. . St. Petersburg, one of the high-latitude cities, is the longest day of the day from May to July. The evening of the summer solstice is more lively than during the day, with folk concerts and ballet performances celebrating the unique landscape.

France will start with the music festival (La Fête de la Musique) and enjoy free music and street performances on Paris night on June 21st. In the early summer, the season of lavender blooms, South France Provence has the most famous "Lavender Road", the entire lavender field of different shades of purple waves layer up and down, feeling deeply surrounded by lavender flowers, If you don't want to fly to the far south, you can go to Japan's Hokkaido, near Taiwan, to experience the same beautiful lavender fields.

July: Avignon Festival, Bull Festival, Summer Discount Season

Launched in July each year for a month. In 1947, French artist Jean Vilar founded the now-famous Avignon Art Festival celebration in the warm South Town. Each year, the performing arts groups from all over the world (including Taiwan) are brought together to make the town of Avignon a stage for performers, bringing a refreshing summer atmosphere. In Spain, the Bull Run Festival is held from July 6th to 14th each year to commemorate San Fermin's protection of the sages and bullfighting.

The main celebrations include music and art. Open-air dances and other celebrations, you must pay attention to your safety when you go to watch the bull and bullfighting activities. Of course, the most important thing for shoppers is the summer auction during the summer vacation. At the end of June, the major brands have a large discount, but the best time Summer is to leave the exclusive summer memories to distort this summer.

August: Tomato Festival, Edinburgh Culture and Art Season

From August to the start of the school day, there is a Battle of La Tomatina in Spain. From the last Wednesday in August 1945, in the small town of Buñol in the Valencia region of Spain, a group of people participated in the parade of the Gigantes y Cabezudos, trying to squeeze into the front and stumble a parade. The two sides began to scuffle and took the tomato husk from the fruit stand next to them. The next year, they were unwilling to record last year. The young people took the tomato to the war at the same time and place. The middle was banned until the government announced in 1975. The Tomato War is a legitimate activity. On the last Wednesday of August of each year, the Tomato Festival, which attracts tens of thousands of people to visit and participate in the war, is a huge scale.

to visit and participate in the war, is a huge scale. It can be used for about 120-130 tons of tomatoes. The Edinburgh Cultural Arts Festival, held annually in Edinburgh, Scotland, is divided into the Edinburgh International Festival, the Edinburgh Festival Fringe and the Edinburgh Military Tattoo. There is no review of the Edinburgh International Fringe Festival. Anyone can perform as long as they can find the venue. Therefore, the program is very diverse and often sees bold and innovative works as the stage for the first performance. The Military Music Festival is held in the world-famous square in front of the Edinburgh Castle. It is dominated by military bands and the scene is very spectacular. It is one of the most attractive cultural events in the world.

September: Oktoberfest

The world's largest food carnival, the Oktoberfest, has been around for two hundred years. The Oktoberfest originally originated in 1810 and was held to celebrate the wedding of Prince Ludwig. It has been converted into a carnival beer festival. It is held in Munich, Germany for two weeks (about 16 days) from the end of September to the beginning of October. It is Munich. The most grand event of the year. Enjoy a full-bodied beer, taste Bavarian cuisine in the south of Germany, watch traditional dances and music performances, and enjoy a variety of rides and float parades, attracting nearly 6 million people from around the world every year.

November: Water Lantern Festival, Christmas Market

The Lantern Festival is a traditional festival in Thailand, which is December 15 of the Thai calendar every year. The number of days celebrated in various parts of Thailand varies, but it is usually a large festival of 3 or 4 days, while the sky lanterns are It is one of the activities during the Festival of Lights. The origin of the water-discharge lamp is to sacrifice the god Khan Ka, and pray for the good weather in the coming year. All peace is also a symbol of taking away all the evils and bad luck of the past year, and saying that it is good to say goodbye to the future. On the night of the Lantern Festival, wherever the river or the lake is located, no matter the big city or the small town, the water will be filled with water lamps. The Thai people will put the hand-made water lamps into the river to pin their wishes. And blessings. Among them, the "Millions of Lights Casting" in Chiang Mai is one of the climaxes of the Thai Lantern Festival. The full blessings float to the sky and pray for the peace of the country.

The Christmas Market, which is one of Europe's long-established Christmas traditions, is launched in mid-November until Christmas Eve, the seventh largest city in France, the capital of the Alsace region. Strasbourg has a Strasbourg Christmas market that has been around for more than 400 years since 1570. It is the most famous and oldest Christmas market in France today! The traditional Christmas market traditions will inherit different special traditional cultures due to their geographical location. They will sell Christmas decorations and festive foods. Don't miss the Christmas-limited Mulled wine, which is warm in your hands. The warm red wine of the body opens the curtain of a warm holiday for the annual Christmas!! Full of blessings and warm greetings to the Chiang Mai Festival of Lights and the European Christmas Market to feel the warmth of winter

December: Belgian oyster festival New Year's Eve

Poems From SLOVAKIA on Summer

SUMMER POEM

The bee buzzes in the morning,
to visit every flower.
There is a lot of screaming,
until she produces sweet honey.

Flies a butterfly, we know it,
on wings wearing summer.
He raises him in the field
in our entire neighborhood.

He waves like a flag
over the river.
Health boats, boats,
and has joy from the vodka.

Who's on the sidewalk?
Little sparrow musicians.
Chains, chiri, chiriques
- it's sparring music.

BEAUTIFUL SUMMER

The holidays are beautiful, warm,
I drive with the summer wind.
The sun is waiting for me,
coach, cooler, jelly.

In the sea, swim, jump, play,
it does not need to be afraid
of water.
Build a castle from the sand,
I'm looking forward, I like it.

The clean air and the smell of the forest,
everyone overthrows that beauty.
I'll choose it too, and circus hat.

World is the entire forest,
I'll take them today.
Herbs for Healthy Tea,
if you are sick, so do you.

A LETTER TO MY SON

Rudyard Kipling (Slovakian poem)

If you manage to remain calm,
even if everyone lost him, accusing you;

If you still have hope, even if everyone doubts about you,
however, counting on their reservation;

If you can wait without fatigue,
if you do not respond to insults with insults,
if you do not pay hatred for hatred,
however, he does not pretend to be a sage and saint;

If you dream - you do not succumb to dreams;

If you reason - do not make reasoning a goal;

If you can accept success and failure,
treating both illusions equally,

If you suffer the perversion of the truth you preached,
when the wanderers make an ambush to cheat the naïve
or you accept the ruin of what was the content of your life,
when you humbly start rebuilding with already worn tools;

If you can put all your successes on one scale and you can take a chance, putting everything on one card, if you can lose and start everything from the beginning without a word,
not regretting that you lost;

If you can make your heart, nerves, and strength fail,
even if you have felt their exhaustion for a long time, just to persevere when there is nothing else to say about perseverance;

If you can talk to dishonest ones without losing integrity or to walk with the king in a natural way,

If enemies or warm friends can not hurt you;

If you value all people, do not overestimate;

If you can use every minute,
giving value to every passing moment;

Yours is the earth and everything on it and what - the most important - my son - you will be a man.

"APPOINTMENT WITH LOVE"

The clock above the information at the Central Station in New York showed an hour six six. The tall, young officer raised his tanned face and squinted his eyes to check the exact time. His heart was pounding, breathing. In six minutes, he will see a woman who has taken a special place in his life for the last 18 months. He had never seen her, yet her words kept encouraging him.

Lieutenant Blandford remembered especially one day, the worst fight when his plane was inside enemy planes. In one of his letters, he admitted to her that he often feared.. A few days before the battle he got an answer from her: "Of course you are afraid ... like all brave men. Next time you start to doubt yourself, I want you to imagine my voice saying:" Though I'm going down a dark valley, I'm not angry I will fear because you are with me. "He remembered then and regained his strength.

Now he really had to hear her voice. In four minutes. A girl walked past him and turned around for her. She had a flower with her, but it was not the red rose they had made an appointment for. Besides, she was only eighteen years old, and Hollis Maynel said she was thirty.. "So what?" He replied to her, "I have 32." Though he actually had 29.

He glided in the memory of the book he was reading at the tarning camp. "About interpersonal relationships" - it was the title. The entire book contained notes written with a woman's hand. He never thought that a woman could look into the male heart so deeply and with such understanding. Her name was on the bookplate: Hollis Maynel. He checked the phone book of the city of New York and found her address. Napisał. He wrote. Odpisała. She wrote back. The next day he was embarked on, but they did not stop writing to each other. She responded to his letters for 13 months. She wrote even when his letters did not reach her. The soldier felt that he was in love with her and she loved him.

However, she refused all his requests to send him his photograph. She explained: "If your feelings for me do not have real grounds, my appearance does not matter, maybe I'm pretty, and if so, then you will use it and you will want to get involved." But I do not like this kind of love. You must admit that it's more likely. Then I would start to suspect that you do not stop writing to me just because you are lonely and you have no one else No, do not ask me to take a photo When you come to New York, you will see me then you will be able to make a decision. "

Minute to six o'clock. He dug the book he held in his hand. Suddenly Lieutenant Blandford's heart jumped. A young woman was approaching him. She was slim and tall. She had long curly blond hair. Eyes blue, like forget-me-nots, lips and chin betraying willpower. In a light green suit she looked like spring in human form.

He moved toward her, not wanting to notice that she did not have a rose, and then a small provocative smile appeared on her lips. "Are you coming to my side?" She whispered. He took one more step. And then he saw Hollis Maynel. She was standing right behind this girl, a woman in her forties, graying hair sticking out from under the damaged hat. She was stout. Her feet with swollen ankles were stuck in high-heeled shoes without heels. But with her ravaged coat she wore a red rose. The girl in the green suit quickly left.

Blandford felt like he was going to split himself in two. He wanted to follow the girl, he longed for the woman, whose spirit accompanied and sustained him in difficult times. And here she was standing. He saw her pale face, gentle and sensitive, gray eyes with warm sparks.

Lieutenant Blandford did not hesitate. His fingers clenched on the copy of the destroyed book that was to be a hallmark for her. Maybe it will not be love, but it's definitely something special, friendship for which he was and must be grateful to her.

He straightened his shoulders, saluted, and pulled out a book to the woman, though inside he felt a bit of disappointment.

- "I am Lieutenant Blandford, and you are Mrs Maynel. I am very happy that we could meet. Can I ... can I take you for dinner? The woman's face widened in a forgiving smile.

- "Son, I do not know what's going on," she said, "but this young lady in a green suit begged me to tie this rose to her coat. She said that if you invite me to dinner, let me tell you that she is waiting in this restaurant across the street. She said it was a kind of test.
